LOCAL NEWS

—Conductor James Ward is planning to occupy his new home on Winton terrace April 1.

—E. W. Gammell has a carload of "Red" automobiles Honesdale bound. Dr. C. R. Brady recently purchased a car of this model.

—The regular meeting of Protection Engine Company No. 3 will be held next Tuesday evening, being postponed one week from the usual meeting night.

—The public will probably feel the decline in the price of eggs soon as the market price is decreasing day by day. The arrival of a consignment from the South caused the decline and 30-cent eggs will be here before long.

—Judge Staples, of Stroudsburg, will preside over Wayne county court for Judge A. T. Searle the week beginning April 1st. All travel-judges drawn for the fourth week in March will answer to roll call in April instead.

—Two large 1000 type engines brought a train of coal cars to Honesdale Wednesday. Several of the cars supplied the local trade, while the balance of the train conveyed steam sizes to points down the Erie. The locomotives took 59 empty cars back with them that night.

—Company E, 13th Infantry, has organized a strong basketball team. It challenges to play any team within a radius of 100 miles from Honesdale. Capt. C. J. Kelly is temporary manager. The lineup: Joseph Jacob, Daniel Faatz, forwards; Geo. Shields, center; Michael Stahl, Chas. Faatz, guards.

—The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Racht was largely attended on Wednesday morning from St. Mary Magdalene's church. Among the children and other relatives to attend the services from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. William Racht, sons Jacob and Leonard, of Syracuse, N. Y.; Adam Theobald and family of Carbondale; Mr. and Mrs. John Racht, of Scranton, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Racht of Binghamton, N. Y.

—On Tuesday night the "Rink Five" basketball team were entertained and banqueted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cortright. The boys all report a first-class time and vote their host and hostess to be the best of entertainers. Those present were Louis Badger, Wm. Manzan, William Polt, Reginald O'Connell, Leon Ross and Fred Schuerholz. The occasion was the celebration of the victory in the series with Seelyville.

—The marriage of Miss Vina Lindsay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lindsay, of Church street, and Mr. Charles Hilton, of Honesdale, was solemnized at the German Lutheran parsonage in Hoboken, N. J., on Saturday, February 10, by the Rev. Mr. Reitcher. Mr. Hilton is the popular Pullman conductor on the Erie branch and the bride is a most estimable young lady. Their wedding trip will include New York, Washington, D. C., and other places of interest. Both young people are well known here and have many friends who wish them much happiness.

—The members of the "500" club entertained their gentlemen friends at the Lyric on Wednesday with a Valentine party. There were thirty-five young people present. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing and in the former prizes awarded as follows: Mrs. Frank Truscott, ladies first; Weston Parker, gentlemen's first; Miss Helen Jacobs, ladies' consolation and Leon Katz, gentlemen's consolation. A very good time is reported and after the amusements a buffet lunch was served which consisted of chicken salad, ice cream, rolls, coffee, and cake. The hall was daintily decorated in pink and white.

—Sleighbing is worn out. —Daylight now at 6 p. m. —Read the advertisements in this issue of The Citizen. They contain many bargains.

—The Seelyville fire men will hold their last ball before Lent on Friday evening, February 16.

—A crowd of young people enjoyed a sleighride to Mr. Short's home at Steen on Tuesday evening.

—A marriage license has been issued to John Yicks, of Passaic, N. J., and Miss Anna Kchenick, of Mt. Pleasant.

—The Sodality of St. Mary Magdalene's church will serve supper at the Lyric on Tuesday evening, Feb. 15. The public is cordially invited.

—The Penn Tobacco Company, of Wilkes-Barre, filed notice of an increase of capital stock from $200,000 to $1,000,000.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

—The Walton Chronicle says that the people of that town spend about $100,000 annually to mail order houses instead of trading with home merchants.

—Dr. R. A. Smith, of Sterling, has been appointed lay delegate of the M. E. church of that place, to the annual conference which meets in Scranton in March.

—The following trustees were re-elected for another term of years in the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening: H. S. Salmon, W. T. Moore and J. D. Weston.

—We have experienced 49 days of solid winter weather. The temperature during this time has been at or below the zero mark. Practically no snow has fallen during the present month.

—As we go to press word was received from Dyberry that William Kimble, of whom we have a special write-up in today's Citizen, is very low and that his death is expected to occur at any time.

—A large sleighload of young people from Waymart were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller on East street on Tuesday night last. They were royally entertained with music and games and left for home at 3 o'clock.

—Frost has disturbed the working of the Farmers and Mechanics bank clock in a manner that it refuses to run. The pedestal stands on a concrete base, which is four feet thick. The frost is evidently as deep as the thickness of the standard and has forced it out of plumb.

—King Belger, a horse commonly known as the guddess wonder, dropped dead a few days ago while being driven home from Kenosha Lake. The animal had been on exhibition at county fairs in this neighborhood and had a track record of 2:17½ guddess and 2:28¼ driven.

—The red fox seems to be very plentiful here in Wayne county and every once in a while there is a report of one or more being caught or captured. Last week a fine specimen was caught in a trap by Eugene Kuhn, of Adella. Three were killed in Newfoundland by Elmer and Fred Waltz.

—As a result of a search instigated by the Italian government to locate the whereabouts of a celebrated oil painting reputed to be worth $28,000, the desired canvas is thought to be in the possession of John Sheridan, a laborer living in Binghamton, N. Y. The painting is one of the first two copies of the "Madonna and Child" immortalized by the great Michelangelo.

—The benefit basketball game for the Bergmann fund was played at the Rink on Wednesday night, between the Rink Five and Seelyville. The Honesdale team outclassed their rivals from the start, and the way they passed and shot was a feature. If the Rink Five would always use their team work as they did last night it would be a hard matter to beat them. The final score was 39 to 4. The receipts were about $50. Manager Cortright donated the use of the Rink for the occasion.

NEED A BODY CRY.

Mr. Editor: If a body walking down Main street should a bevy of six girls meet, who would not move to let you by, need a body cry.

If a body goes to the office for mail while waiting up again the rail, choking with smoke that smartens your eye—need a body cry?

If a body wants the sidewalk to walk on, and it is occupied by a coal wagon, that turns you in the street to get by—need a body cry?

If a body pass a news store, and stumble over carts and boxes galore, left out on the sidewalk to dry—need a body cry?

If a body stops with a friend to talk and a bill board lying on the walk causes a fall when no help is nigh—need a body cry?

The Kicker Kicks Again.

Mr. Editor: Among the numerous wants of Honesdale is— A foot bridge over Park Lake at head of Court street.

An ice retainer at the Torrey mill dam.

A trolley road with trolley cars that will run.

A curfew bell that will ring and call the children home.

A better freight service by the Delaware and Hudson Co.

The connection of upper and lower East streets.

A supply of anthracite coal always on hand.

The electric and telephone poles painted in various colors to correspond with the advertising cards tacked thereon.

A brick or some other good pavement for Main street.

A night watchman on the Main street bridge with power to arrest.

A KICKER.

Dear Editor: You have invited your readers to express themselves about their interests in the different subjects. Now, I am so situated that I do not mingle with business much, but one thing makes me sick, which is this: I have lived in Oregon twenty years, and I have been a fruit grower. Being interested in nursery work for over seven years, I fully understand every condition there, and I will say that here they could do better than there if they would only pay one half the attention to their apples that they do there. But it is the acreage that they get rich on there. Their trees bear no more fruit than the trees here, and the trees here are not one half as susceptible to diseases as there owing to the cold winters here that kills the germs. It is the transportation that brings the apples so high here, and I feel sorry that our Eastern people will allow the Pacific coast people to ship here when the Eastern people will not awaken to their privileges while opportunity is knocking at their doors.

There is no reason why the people here cannot if they will make their land the same price, and still the East will buy.

I enclose clippings, which may be of interest to your readers.

ARREST LEADERS.

Ryan and Hockin Caught In Dynamite Probe Net.

A NATION WIDE CONSPIRACY?

Federal Marshals Act In Many Cities. To Arraign Accused Men at Indianapolis March 12—Hockin, Said to Be Brains of Ironworkers' Union, Sought Immunity.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—Thirty arrests, with a certainty that there will be others, represents the work of the federal grand jury in the dynamiting case up to date, and it is not denied at the federal building that there are from fifteen to twenty others who have been caught in the net and will be arrested. Nearly all the accused men are now or have been members of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' organization.

They were in the great conspiracy to destroy property and break up the open shop movement, however, and each is charged with some other act in connection with members of the iron workers in the work of destruction.

Frank M. Ryan, president of the International union; Herbert S. Hockin, secretary-treasurer; J. T. Butler, first vice president; Fred T. Sherman, business agent of the local union of iron workers, and S. P. Meadows, business agent of the Carpenters' union, were arrested here and taken at once to the office of the United States marshal, where they gave bond, Ryan and Hockin in a sum of $10,000 each and the others in the sum of $5,000 each.

The arrests bring before the country the full extent of the alleged dynamite conspiracy and show what men the government accuses of having had a connection with a nation wide criminal organization formed among iron workers and others to fight the battles of unionism with dynamite and nitroglycerin. Caught in the net of the government in all parts of the country are labor men who are accused here of having had a hand in the conspiracy or in overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy. Explosions which occurred in twenty or more cities in six years, and for which no one was punished, again spring up before the public, and local communities find that the government is attempting to bring to justice many men who have not hitherto been known to be connected with the dynamiting game.

A total of fifty-four men were indicted by the federal grand jury. It was learned at the federal building. District Attorney Miller, who has been in charge of the investigation, predicted that every man indicted would be under arrest by today. Few, if any, he said, were likely to escape arrest, although in one or two instances, he said, a defendant might be out of his home city or not accessible to the marshals at once.

All defendants will be arraigned before Judge Anderson in the federal court March 12.

Herbert S. Hockin, the secretary-treasurer of the ironworkers, made many attempts to reach an agreement with the government after the inquiry began, but all overtures were rejected, as the officials believed him to be one of the leaders in the conspiracy and were certain of his indictment and punishment. It is no secret that he will make a clean breast of the whole conspiracy.

Hockin is charged with having gone to McManigal when the latter was a quarryman in Detroit and to have induced him to attempt the blowing up of a hoisting engine and some other machinery and designated the place where the explosive could be found. It is also charged that he induced McManigal to go to Buffalo and blow up the Lehigh Valley bridge. The dynamiter says Hockin was with him in Buffalo, but the explosion was arranged so as to give Hockin time to get to Canada.

It has been related by McManigal that Hockin aided in the actual transportation of the explosives. The taking of a suit case full of nitroglycerin to Cleveland for the Fourth of July "job" at Akron is one of the events in which Hockin figures.

Besides being a field general in the conspiracy, Hockin is alleged to have been in charge of a good deal of the work of keeping the conspiracy supplied with dynamite and nitroglycerin. He was back of the plan to establish a nitroglycerin storage house at Muncie, it is said, and, according to McManigal, was the man who made arrangements with C. C. Keiser, a well known, to obtain the "juice," consignments of nitroglycerin being transferred from one buggy to another along lonely roads during the darkness of the night.

For some time Hockin has been recognized as one of the most resourceful leaders in the ironworkers' union, and as an international organizer was much in demand in all parts of the country.
